

SAINT IGNATIUS LOYOLA

“I am Saint Ignatius Loyola.

There is so much emphasis on education throughout the world. The definition of education is many times defined according to the one who is interested in a particular area of life. The word ‘education’ to some, refers to mathematics, geographical studies, historical studies, and of course, this list is endless. But as I speak to you today, I must speak on the fact that there is much immoral education being accepted, because it is more pleasing to the senses of human beings. In reference to the senses, so much misinterpretation occurs.

You do live in a time worse than Sodom and Gomorrah. This statement should make everyone think of the horror in this period, wherein so much diabolical acceptance was accepted and practiced by millions of people, adults, and even the young. Granted, you were not there to see it, but it was a horror in many ways, because of so much personal desecration, allowing impurities in all facets of life, for all ages of life, pleasing only to the enemy. This enemy has many names. Some accept the name casually, indifferently; others accept the name with fear and inwardly feel ugliness.

Each day should not be a challenge to mankind. Each day should be a day of thanks, a day of looking forward to the day that one will be returned to The Father in Glory, in Happiness, in Gratitude. When you think of this statement, remember one important act that must come from you, and that is to remember that you have the responsibility within you of returning to The Creator that ‘Connecting Link’ that gives human life all the assets of human life — the ability to understand so many things, the ability to forgive, the ability to give, the ability to be pure in thoughts, words, deeds, actions, never allowing anyone you live with, or you meet, to be distracted by an impure act, thought, word, deed, thus always remembering that human life is a Precious Gift of Divine Love, and in living it, you have the responsibility that no other living matter or thing is the custodian of, and that is the Soul that must be thought about, not just intermittently, but constantly.

Just as you have a limb connected to you, and you use that limb to accomplish many things during the day, you can relate this to the Soul that is a Constant Portion of your life, even in what you think, what you say, and what example you are to others in every way.

The Father has blessed the world with a Gift of His Divine Love, bearing the Name of His Spirit of Divine Love, known to mankind in a human way, so that mankind could relate to the closeness that this Saint had to Divine Love.

Be aware of every moment you speak, every move you make, because you see, one day you will be accountable for them. Be strong, never be weak morally, mentally, physically, spiritually, when what you are, what you do, affects the Soul that is an Important Part of you. So be it.”
