

SAINT ATHANASIUS

“I am Saint Athanasius.

Heresy is not a thing of the past; it is openly present at the present time, and has been for a great length of time.

It is sad for me to say that belief in a Creator is oftentimes expressed in the same tone that belief in an ordinary thing is liked or disliked. There is very little distinction in how an individual uses his or her mentality in a casual, indifferent, impractical, lackadaisical attitude, manner, whenever the subject of Sainthood arises, or even Higher than this — The Father Who created All Things is mentioned.

Thousands upon thousands of Words have been dictated in several of the past years on the importance of human life, and its Close Association with The Holy Trinity, with The Divine, with The Creator of All Things. There is so much sadness sometimes, Here in the Heavens, when We hear so little respect regarding the Importance of the Goal for which human life was created; granted, not the body, but that Inner Portion, the Soul.

It is sad to have this ignored, because so much emphasis is placed on the flesh and all that the flesh contains, forming the body, giving to the body the ability to think, to feel, to be active, and to be able to learn so many things on so many subjects.

When We hear an individual make claim to want to follow in the footsteps of others who took the responsibility to represent The Divine through a formal organization, it is sad for All of Us to see so much desecration, and vile acceptance of the duties attached to this occupation of human life.

All of Heaven speaks through this Gift of Divine Love, and most of the Subjects are pointed to enlightening individuals on what is expected of them, what they should follow mentally, morally, physically, because of the Soul they are the custodian of, and the Soul, as a Portion of The Creator, though It is not seen, is obviously felt through a mentality, or through the senses, when one is making a decision on what action to take. Should it be vile, contemptible, and lack any sign of purity, or will anyone care that they are responsible for every action they perform, they partake in, as a human being?

They say there's a Goal to life. Then is it not a logical responsibility that a goal immediately says 'accomplishment', but it also says it takes a certain innate ability, effort, understanding, and a sense of justice to accomplish the end result when it is a Goal that gives Greatness to the body and, of course, to the Soul.

I could speak hours on this subject, it is of such great importance, because as I speak at this moment, what is occurring in many places would make you vomit at how vile and contemptible the actions are. The physical is a Gift from The Creator, the mental also, and all the abilities of human life have a reason, a purpose. It is more logical to choose acts of loyalty to The Creator than disrespect, or ignore totally what a Great Beautiful Gift human life is, and it has a Goal that nothing else created has.

I know as some read these Words they will be shocked at the straightforwardness, but I assure you, throughout the world there is so little human respect for human life, all ages, all backgrounds.

The Father, in His Love for human life, is using His Holy Spirit to deliver verbally and in script, Something for all ages of human life to read and more fully understand that human life is in Divine Plan, because it has within it a Gift that nothing else has. It's called a Soul, a Portion of The Creator that is to be returned to Him, and be able to be called a Saint."
