

TEACHING DELIVERED THROUGH FRANCES M. KLUG
ON SEPTEMBER 10, 1993

“HIT AND MISS”

“Keeping the Commandments is oftentimes a hit and miss way of life. They are remembered when they do not interfere with some people’s emotional state, or times when vulnerability to immoral participation is more interesting, or the need to respond to others demanding encouragement.

Is it lack of believing in God’s Commandments, or is it a lack of self-esteem, or is it a habit to please others above all costs, and ignore God at any cost to one’s Soul.

There is so little understanding of the True Existence of one’s Soul and Its close association with God. If this were not a fact, why would God have given us His Commandments?

Children are not being taught the importance of what they should see as wrong.

Also, adults are so involved in instructing the children on the so-called social areas of life, they are totally eliminating the moral code of ethics based on God’s Purpose of human life.”